'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

This business of being a football "expert" isn't so hot these fine days.

Take yesterday's games for instance. Look how the experts predicted the outcome of the Stanford-U. S. C. game, and then see what happened.

And then the experts made their predictions on the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game to end either in a tie or in a slight victory for Notre Dame. Then look what happened to the Pittsburgh team.

We get a great kick out of listening to the radio announcer call the Notre Dame team the Fighting Irish and then hear him name some of the players on the team, whose names end in "skis" and what have you.

Maybe they call 'em Fighting Irish because there are so few Irish on the team.

More reports on subsidizing and recruiting grid players were received from the east yesterday when Kansas was barred from the big six on charges that it violated conference rules.

One of the star players on the team, a halfback who was mentioned for all American honors, was attacked as a subsidized athlete.

One can't blame the colleges themselves for this. The alumni are a lot to blame for this condition.

Now that the ins are out and the outs are in, in Brazil, let's sit back and see what will happen.

Some one mentioned wedding anniversaries yesterday and E. B. Bull declared that he always remembers the exact day of his marriage and never has to be reminded about it by his wife.

All married men should get together and erect a statue in honor of E. B. Such a man like this should be awarded high honors.

On the other hand we were told by a red headed insurance agent that one time he marked the calendar so he would be sure and remember his wedding anniversary.

When the day came he glanced at his calendar, saw

100 KILLED IN MINE BLAST

One Wounded In Knife Affray At Local Pool Room

JOB PLEDGES CHECKED BY GOVERNMENT

MANY FEARED ENTOMBED IN BLAST

FRIEDRICHSTAHL, Germany, Oct. 25.—UP—An explosion wrecked the Maybach coal mine in the Saar region today, entombing many miners in the shaft.

The mayor of Friedrichstahl said this evening that six were known to be dead of the 141 who went down into the mine this morning. The majority of the others were still entombed and their fate unknown.

Late tonight the management of the mine announced it was feared 100 had died in the disaster.

The explosion was attributed to fire-damp. The explosion occurred in the deep levels of the mine. Coal dust and fumes ascended through the various levels and the first miners brought out were unconscious from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Most of the miners were Germans and Poles. The mine was operated by the French under the Versailles treaty.

When the explosion occurred a huge column of smoke arose from the pit-head. Workers on the surface, donning gas masks, descended emergency shafts to reach the trapped miners.

Anxious relatives, still mindful of the recent Alsodorf disaster in which 262 miners died, crowded to the head of the shaft, awaiting news from the rescue workers.

Suspect Held In City Jail As Assailant

One man is in the city jail and another is in Hospital Richmond as the result of an alleged knifing affray at a Richmond pool room last night.

Joe Terrozas, 277 Second street, is suffering from a deep knife wound under his left arm pit as the result of the affray. Louis Esquivel, 27, no address, is being held in the city jail for investigation. A charge is expected to be filed against him today.

Terrozas was at the pool room last night at a late hour watching the players.

Esquivel, so the wounded man told police, approached him and held out a dime, saying "here you, put this in a piano and make it play for me." He indicated a mechanical piano sitting in one corner of the room.

When Terrozas refused to take the coin, he said, Esquivel drew a knife and set upon him, inflicting the wound.

Men at the pool room separated the two and held Esquivel while the police were called. The wounded man was taken to Hospital Richmond where he was treated by Dr. P. C. Campbell.

The affray took place at a pool room at Second street and Macdonald avenue.

12 WORKMEN ESCAPE IN BORE FLOOD

OAKLAND, Oct. 25.—A subterranean stream opened by workmen on the western drift of Indian Creek tunnel of San Francisco municipal water project nearly brought death today to 12 workmen when the flow rushed into the shaft before they could run to safety.

The water was shoulder deep, it was reported. Livermore headquarters of the Hetch-Hetchy project denied that any serious accident had occurred, but L. C. McAfee, chief assistant city engineer of San Francisco admitted that the Indian Creek tunnel crew had opened a subterranean water spout from which water at the rate of 1000 gallons a minute had poured.

All workmen on that phase of the project were idle today as drainage of the tunnel by the pump crew was under way. It was said that the tunnel should be cleared in 24 hours.

The Indian Creek tunnel is about 1600 feet long and is to join the Alameda creek portal bore of the 27 mile tunnel which will bring water into San Francisco.

Water seepage in both tunnels had been common and workmen believed that they had opened a subterranean lake lying between the two tunnels.

Man Killed In Automobile Crash

An Albany man was dead today after the car he was driving crashed into a telegraph pole on San Pablo avenue and was demolished.

Emelio Sigilonde, 825 1-2 Stanage avenue died before he could be rushed to a hospital after his car suddenly swerved into a pole at the corner of San Pablo avenue and Eureka, El Cerrito.

It was reported that Sigilonde was driving at a high rate of speed when without warning the machine crashed into the pole. No other occupant was in the car at the time of the crash.

One year ago yesterday Sigilonde arrived from Italy where he had gone to wed his wife.

During the war he served with the Fortieth division of the American Expeditionary Forces and was among the first men from this city to reach the battlefields of Europe.

In addition to his widow Beatrice Sigilonde, a baby, Ester Maria, one brother, two sisters, and his mother survive him. The brother and two sisters are residents in the state of Oregon, while his mother lives in Italy.

GOOD TIMES RETURN IS SEEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—UP—A growing feeling of optimism is apparent in the organization which President Hoover is building to deal with the unemployment situation.

Expression of satisfaction from Hoover and a series of rapid moves by Colonel Arthur Woods indicated a high spirit of confidence in results to be obtained.

With his mechanical organization taking shape and beginning to function, Colonel Woods planned to go to New York today to recruit other workers. His first task is to find out the exact situation in regard to the jobless. In this connection pledges of manufacturers not to discharge workers, given to Hoover a year ago in his first depression conference with business leaders, may come under scrutiny.

Pay Rolls Watched

HIS STRENGTH GROWS

INMAN'S STATEMENT

Senator J. M. Inman announced his candidacy for congress from the third district as follows:

I have decided to become a candidate for congress from the Third Congressional District. I have had the matters under consideration for several days, and am entering the contest only after the most careful thought and analysis.

I became a member of the Assembly in 1913, and have been a member of the Senate since 1917. During that time I have built a record which is open to the world. It is either a good record or a bad record, as you may view it.

I am so well satisfied with it that I am going to stand upon it and it alone during the coming campaign. I have never found it necessary or efficacious to tear the other fellow down in order to win elections. That shall continue to be my policy, and I shall not be swerved from it.

I ask no vote of sympathy and I claim no right of succession. I am either the right man for the job or I am not. If my record of achievement meets with the approval of the electors of this district I will win. If not, I will not win.

I have been chairman of the committee on commerce and navigation and am acquainted with those matters. I have been a member of the committee on swamp and overflowed lands. I have been chairman of the finance committee and acting chairman of the judiciary committee. For two sessions I was chairman of the important committee on public utilities. In short, I have become familiar with the problems of this district to such an extent that I feel I can become of value thereto.

I was active in legislation restricting ownership of lands by aliens not eligible to citizenship, and drafted and, as president of the Exclusion League, assisted in placing the present alien land laws before the people and upon the statute books.

I am a veteran of the World War, a member of the American Legion and interested in veterans' welfare, as my record will demonstrate.

That portion of the record dealing with humanitarian and labor matters I am especially proud of. I have ever placed the man and woman above the dollar.

But sufficient of that. The record is there so that he who runs may read. I ask the voters to study it and base their judgment upon it.

INMAN WINS SUPPORT IN COUNTY

The pendulum in Contra Costa county, and particularly in the western section, which includes Richmond, is swinging very rapidly to Senator J. M. Inman in his candidacy for congressman of the Third district.

As the facts concerning the record of Inman in the legislature are becoming known, as the people find out the standing of the man and his accomplishments, they are becoming firmly convinced that a seasoned and experienced legislator is what is needed in congress to represent this district.

The candidate has a record of accomplishments to his credit of which any man might well feel proud.

Continued endorsements of labor organizations in the Third Congressional District in his favor are being received at the Inman headquarters at Sacramento.

George Sanderson of this city is expected to head a delegation to the Navy yard city. Information concerning the visit may be obtained from him. It was said. From 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. officers and enlisted men at Mare Island will be the hosts of visitors, who will be permitted the freedom of the yard.

Several submarines now docked at the yard will be open to visitors as will other ships now there.

THE WEATHER
Fair and mild Sunday; light northerly winds.

LEGION ELEVEN WILL PLAY AT PETALUMA

The Richmond American Legion gridders will today invade Petaluma to give battle to the Petaluma Legion eleven. The local athletes will be accompanied on the trip to Petaluma by a considerable group of loyal Richmond supporters.

The local eleven is going to the Egg City determined to avenge the rather one-sided defeat at the hands of the Antioch Legionnaires last week-end. Last week's 25 to 6 defeat came as a thunderbolt to the Richmond athletes following two victories and one tied game. However, the locals have recovered from this surprise, and have been busily mending the faults in the offense and defense under the direction of Coach Samples during the past week. A truly strong team is now expected to go against Petaluma this afternoon.

Today's contest will be the first game played by the Petaluma eleven. The experience of the Richmond men will therefore probably tell in the locals' favor today. The entrance of a new team into state American Legion football competition gives added interest to today's game at Petaluma.

The Richmond team will meet at the Elks building at eleven o'clock this morning to receive transportation to Petaluma, according to an announcement by Dan "Hap" Bradley, manager of the Richmond American Legion eleven.

Turkey Tennis Tournament To Start Sunday

The turkey tennis tournament of the Richmond Tennis association will begin next Sunday on the local courts.

About 20 entries are expected to be enrolled in the tournament. There will be singles, men's doubles, and mixed doubles competition.

The matches will be run off quickly, and the tournament is consequently expected to come to a conclusion in probably two Sundays.

The Richmond Tennis association has sponsored many successful tournaments, including the annual Contra Costa county meet, and it is expected that the coming turkey tournament will have all the interest and speed possessed in the former competition.

Odd Fellows Will Play Rich Pies

The Richmond Odd Fellows will cross bats with the Rich Pie company nine of Oakland this afternoon on the San Pablo diamond. The contest is scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock.

Carl Kamb will start on the mound for the three linkers this afternoon, while Bill Gualdoni will be behind the platter for the local lodgement.

The Odd Fellows were narrowly edged out of a victory in their first game of the Oakland Winter league last Sunday, losing to the Rola club of Oakland five to four. However, they are expected to be able to take the Rich Pies down the line today if they are playing up to their usual standards of fielding and swatting.

The local high school athletes are busily training in preparation for several meets to be held before Christmas. They will participate in a mile and a half run against Alameda during the Richmond-Alameda high school football game. The race will be held during half time.

Army, Yale In 7 to 7 Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 25.—UP—Yale and Army fought each other to a standstill and a 7 to 7 tie today in a dull game devoted largely to kicking and hoping for the breaks.

Through the driving rain and cold winds of a raw October day, nearly 75,000 spectators sat drenched and shivering and disappointed.

Yale got a break at the start of the game and scored in the first five minutes of play, the Cadets coming back with a concerted attack in the second quarter to earn a tie.

Had it not been for a most unfortunate incident in this second period, the Bulldogs eleven might have won. But in that quarter, Albie Booth was knocked out on the very first play in which he participated. Booth intercepted an Army forward pass deep in his own territory and three Cadets hit him and hit him hard, one with his knees. Albie was knocked out and carried from the field and with him went Yale's chance of victory. Booth will recover, but Army-Yale relations were not improved by the incident.

Hollywood In Victory Over Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—UP—The Hollywood Sheiks made it three out of four against the Angels in their series for the Pacific Coast league baseball championship this afternoon by murdering the offerings of four pitchers to win, 22 to 4.

The only member of the Hollywood team who failed to hit at least once was the bat boy, Even Jim Turner. Oscar Vitt's pitcher, hit four times in five trips to the bat, including a freak home run.

Ceo Carlyle had a perfect day at the plate, with five out of five, while Mickey Heath included two home runs among his four hits in five trips.

Dittmar collected three hits in four trips for the Angels.

A double-header is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, but if Hollywood takes the first game, the second will be called off.

Y. M. I. Nine Woodmen To Meet Today

The Richmond Y. M. I. will today go into battle against the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America on the First street job. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock. The game will be the second game of the Oakland Winter league.

Johnny Babich will be on the mound for the Y. M. I. while Johnson will do the receiving.

A thrilling clash is expected to be staged at First street, as both contestants won their first game of the league and will probably remain well up in the league standing throughout the season.

Quake Test In Blast Fails

University of California scientists were unable to record the time required for the sound to travel from Blake Brothers' quarry to their seismograph in Berkeley when 15 tons of powder were set off here last night.

Exactly at 5:15 p. m. the discharge was ignited and the signal flashed to the university where professors in the department were waiting to record the time required for the tremor to move to their instruments. The quake was recorded, but savants were unable to get information they were seeking.

Plans were immediately made for another test blast, which if successful will aid scientists in determining how fast the average earthquake shock travels. J. N. Asmussen had charge of the blast arrangements, while telephone officials made arrangements for wiring connections used in the experiment.

TROJAN TEAM OVERWHELMS CARDINALS

PALO ALTO, Oct. 25.—UP—An ineffective Stanford football team went down to defeat here today before the assault of a University of Southern California eleven that made a field day of the annual game between the two institutions.

The final score was 41 to 12 which adequately describes the difference of the play of the two elevens.

The Trojan forwards ripped the Stanford line to shreds and thru the great holes ripped in the Cardinal defense, Duffield, Mohler, Musick and the other U. S. C. backs dashed for gains that carried them time after time across the Stanford goal line.

The defeat was the worst suffered by the Cardinals in years and the Trojans score the greatest ever rolled up by a team representing either institution in the annual game.

Ninety thousand fans who had entered the huge Stanford bowl expecting to see a hard fought battle between two fine football teams sat almost unbelieving while the Trojans rain up their first three touchdowns, then sat back to applaud a well coached eleven that performed with spirit and dash every task that faced it throughout the afternoon.

Duffield and Mohler, who alternated at quarterback for the U. S. C. eleven found no difficulty in running through or around the Cards and the team play of the Trojans, built around these two, was like the functioning of a well oiled piece of machinery.

The Trojans gained a total of 360 yards from scrimmage during the hectic afternoon, of this total 306 yards were made on running plays and 54 yards on passes. Compared to this total, the Cardinals ran up 252 yards, 125 of which were on running plays and 127 on passes. The Trojan total, however, did not include the 75 yard run of Plinckert who picked up a fumble of his team-mate Mohler and raced through the entire Stanford team for a touchdown.

The Trojans made 15 first downs from running plays and passes against 11 for Stanford. Duffield was the particular nemesis of the Cardinals and gained a total of 119 yards in the 15 times he carried the ball, for an average of eight yards per play. Mohler, who was called upon 16 times to carry the ball gained a total of 85 yards for an average of more than five yards on each try. Musick carried the ball 14 times for a total gain of 63 yards. His average was almost five yards.

Caddell, a substitute back, was the only Cardinal who penetrated the Trojan defense consistently. The youngster carried the ball nine times for a total yardage of 78 yards, an average of more than eight yards on each trial. Moffatt and Rotherth, his team mates who had been depended on to carry the brunt of the Cardinal attack were utterly unable to gain through the charging Trojans, who rushed the Stanford backs and spoiled the precision of Coach Glen (Pop) Warner's intricate reverse and spinner plays.

Attorney Says Case Against Woman Is Weak

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 25.—UP—City and county authorities tonight wrestled with the most bewildering murder case that has confronted them in many years, the slaying of Leona O'Loughlin, 10-year-old daughter of Leo O'Loughlin, a city detective.

Two persons stood charged with the killing, but the mystery surrounding the girl's death was just as great as when her body was found in Berkeley park lake a week ago yesterday.

The case against Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, stepmother of the murdered girl, consisted of circumstantial evidence and oral admissions which she refused to put in writing. The case against the other, Frank O'Loughlin, uncle of Leona, was admitted by the district attorney's office to be "exceedingly weak."

Brother Charged
The formal murder charges against Frank were placed at the request of his detective brother, Leo, who said it would be "the quickest way to clear his name."

Mrs. O'Loughlin and Frank were arraigned today in district court on murder charges. Both pleaded not guilty.

The uncle asked for immediate trial. His case was set for Nov. 12. Attorneys for the stepmother sparred for time. They said they wanted a chance to prepare further motions. The time for setting the date of Mrs. O'Loughlin's trial was postponed until a week from today.

Girl Lost
Leona disappeared from her home on the night of October 14, although the fact that she was missing was not reported at police headquarters until the following night. The night she vanished her father was taken seriously ill while on duty at police headquarters.

Leona's body was found in the lake three days after her disappearance. Ground glass was found in her stomach. She had been slugged twice on the head and thrown unconscious into the lake to die.

The father's illness was subsequently found to have been caused from eating ground glass.

Woman Held
Mrs. O'Loughlin was arrested last Sunday. For four days she stood off detectives who questioned her almost constantly.

Suddenly, early Thursday, her iron nerve broke. She offered to take the full blame and then said to "get Frank and give us as unity test; we must be crazy," according to A. T. Clark, captain

Charges Filed On State G. O. P.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 25.—UP—Dr. T. K. Cassidy, democratic state chairman, charged tonight that the Republican state central committee of Wyoming deliberately had violated the laws prohibiting campaign levies upon federal civil service employees.

Dr. Cassidy wired a vigorous protest to the United States Civil Service Commission in Washington, and announced that copies of certain documentary evidence supporting his charge would be placed in the hands of Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate campaign funds committee.

The Democrat chairman said his charge would be based on a letter sent to employees of the internal revenue collector here. The letter bore the signature of George E. Bremmer, chairman of the state central Republican committee, Dr. Cassidy claimed.

He charged it asked for one-half of one month's salary to finance the Republican campaign in Wyoming for U. S. Senator, congressman and governor.

Dr. Cassidy said the letter complained contributions from the usual sources had been poor this year because of the financial depression which has been felt particularly by Wyoming sheep and cattle men, "who are selling their livestock at less than cost," and said that whether or not the recipient of the letter was on the civil service list "is immaterial, so long as you are a Republican and hold the success of the Republican party at heart."

Marshall S. Reynolds, internal revenue collector is vice president and secretary of the state Republican central committee.

Questioning of the woman was continued during the day by R. F. Reed, chief of police. He said she finally offered to confess and implicated three other persons, but mentioned only Frank by name.

No Confession
Just at that moment John M. Keating, attorney for Mrs. O'Loughlin, appeared at headquarters armed with a court order to see in private his client, who previously had been held incommunicado. That conference sealed the lips of the woman.

No further admissions were wrung from her in subsequent examinations.

Tonight it appeared certain she would repudiate the oral admissions already made.

"She hasn't confessed anything," Keating said. "If he did make any admissions it was to escape the persecution of unending questioning by the police."

HUSKIES WIN FROM BEARS ON BREAKS

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 25.—UP—Taking full advantage of two important breaks, Washington scored two touchdowns and defeated California 13 to 0 here today. The margin of victory rested on those breaks more than anything else, as the two teams were evenly matched in all departments of the game.

Washington gained a lead in the second quarter by rushing the ball over the goal after Hickingbotham had kicked a punt on California's 24 yard-line. The recovered fumble was the turning point of the game in the first half.

The other break came late in the first quarter when California was heaving passes in a wild attempt to score. Wentworth, husky Washington center, intercepted one of Watkins' throws and, with good interference, galloped 60 yards for a touchdown to clinch the contest.

Shooting Of Woman Probed

OAKLAND, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Mortimer Gordon Kendall, wife of a wealthy east bay man and prominent in society was shot this morning shortly after she and her husband arrived on this side after a trip across the bay from San Francisco.

Three young men had been given a ride by Kendall and his wife to this city and had just alighted from the car when the shooting occurred.

Kendall ran to the three men, whose names he did not get and asked, "what have you done to my wife?" He ran back to the car and found her writhing in pain. The men seemed to be as much surprised as was Kendall.

Rushed to her home at 1501 Everett avenue and later to a hospital it was found Mrs. Kendall had been shot when a slug passed through the right door of the sedan about four inches from the lower edge. The slug had passed through the seat before hitting Mrs. Kendall in the fleshy part of the thigh.

Police examined the car and declared it appeared as though the gun might have been dropped to the curb and was discharged as it hit the pavement. It is believed that one of the three men was the owner of the weapon, and the shooting was entirely accidental.

Kendall said he gave the men a ride over on the 3 o'clock ferry after they had told him their car had broken down. He said they were well dressed and seemed to have plenty of money.

DULUTH, Minn.—UP—Believed to be the first stowaway on a Great Lakes steamer, Thomas Larkowski, 16, Duluth, is home after a round trip to Port Arthur, Thomas told police here he hid in the hold of the steamer to seek work in a Canadian city. He got off at Port Arthur but instead of looking for work got "cold feet." The next morning Thomas decided to go back to Duluth and that night boarded a steamer but did not hide. This time he went to the main deck and picked out a comfortable deck chair as a bed and slept until ship's officers discovered him.

KING CLAIMS BRIDE AT SERVICE

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 25.—UP.—King Boris III of Bulgaria, and Princess Giovanna of Italy, were united in marriage today as they knelt at a gold covered altar beneath the low arches of the church of St. Francis of Assisi.

Outside a burst of rain over Mount Subasio beat upon the thick walls of the basilica, but the storm had passed when the simple wedding ceremony was ended and the king and his bride—now Queen Ivana of Bulgaria—left the upper church to kneel in silence at the tomb of St. Francis.

The royal party arrived here by train and traveled to the church in 100 automobiles. The procession formed at the station and followed a route of two miles to the basilica, flanked by a guard of 4000 troops.

Roses Scattered
Communal valets in fourteenth century costumes of red and blue formed a guard of honor outside the church and sounded the call to attention on silver trumpets as the procession came into view. They played the hymn of Assisi and followed the wedding procession into the basilica.

Father Risso received the wedding party at the entrance of the church. Inside, 300 little girls of Assisi cast white roses in the path of the princess. Eight communal valets stood beside the altar and sounded the call to attention as the royal party entered the basilica. The trumpets again broke into a fanfare at the elevation ceremony during the celebration of mass. The solemnity of the occasion was heightened by the musical program of the Franciscan choir, directed by the Rev. Domenico Stella, choir master of the basilica. The monks sang the hymn of St. Francis to Creation, composed by Stella, "Domine Salvum fac Regem," or God Save the King, was sung by a sextette.

Large Choir
Before mass Handel's Largo was played on the basilica organ. It was followed by Palestrina's laudat dominum quiet. After the elevation of the host, a quartet sang Salutaris Hostia. St. Francis' own hymn was sung as the procession started for the lower basilica.

The local choir was reinforced by special singers from Roman basilicas and from St. Mark's cathedral in Venice. Behind the altar were 50 of the King's Own Cuirassiers, standard bearers of the flag of Assisi.

The usual pomp of royal weddings was lacking in the ceremony, which could almost be called a private family affair. There was no grand array of foreign royalty and nobility, no lavish display of gold and jewels. Ladies in waiting wore high-necked, long-sleeved gowns. Military full dress uniforms gave the only touch of gaiety to the occasion.

The Franciscan basilica, with its low arched ceilings and its severe frescoes, added a note of solemnity as the royal bride and groom knelt before Father Risso at the altar.

Father Risso celebrated low mass, as nuptial mass was not permissible, because King Boris is a member of the Bulgarian Orthodox church.

Father Risso wore the most precious vestment of the basilica, which had been used only once previously, when the late Cardinal Merry Del Val celebrated mass at the high altar as papal legate to the Franciscan centenary in 1926.

King Boris knelt at the predella on the right, and Princess Giovanna on the left. King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helen, with former Czar Ferdinand and the royal princes and princesses, occupied places on a raised dais to the left of the altar, while Italian and Bulgarian high officers of state stood at the right. Others invited to the wedding occupied the remainder of the basilica.

When mass was completed the nuptial ceremony was begun by the placing of the ring on the bride's finger. The bride and groom and the witnesses signed the necessary registers after the ceremony and the procession reformed and proceeded to the lower basilica.

The ceremony is the first of two which are necessitated by the differing religious faiths of Boris and Giovanna. Besides the Roman Catholic service another will be performed by the Metropolitan Orthodox church, at the great Alexander Nevsky cathedral in Sofia.

King Victor Emmanuel, with Princess Giovanna on his arm, headed the wedding procession to the basilica. King Boris followed with Queen Helen of Italy. Then came Ferdinand, father of the groom and former Bulgarian czar, with Princess Marie Jose of Piedmont, wife of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Anniversary Of Roosevelt's Birth To Be Observed

If Theodore Roosevelt were living he would be 72 years of age tomorrow.

That fact was called to the attention of the public by Everett Cohen, chairman of the Americanization committee of American Legion Post No. 10 last night.

Roosevelt, it is claimed, was the most versatile man ever to wield an influence on the American republic. He was born in New York City Oct. 27, 1858. His higher education was gained at Harvard where he graduated in 1876. Later he studied law at Columbia and was admitted to the bar.

One year after he graduated from college he published his first book "The Naval History of the War of 1812."

In 1881 he entered politics and was elected to the New York assembly where he served three terms. In 1888 he campaigned for the election of Harrison to the presidency who rewarded him after his election by placing him on the Civil Service commission, where he served from 1889 to 1895.

That same year he resigned to become president of the police board of New York City. Two years later he was made assistant secretary of the navy.

In 1898 he resigned that post to enter the Spanish-American war with his own expedition. They served gallantly in the war, seeing action in Cuba.

Following the war he rose rapidly in public office. First he was governor of the state of New York, then vice-president under McKinley, whose place he took upon the assassination of that patriot. In 1904 he was elected president for one term, and after serving brilliantly in that office held high place in the people's esteem.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Probation after Death" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon today in all Churches of Christ Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon will include the following from the Bible: "The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord" (Cor. 15:56-58).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When it is learned that disease cannot destroy life, and that mortals are not saved from sin or sickness by death, this understanding will quicken into newness of life. It will master either a desire to die or a dread of the grave, and thus destroy the great fear that besets mortal existence" (p. 426).

Many Enjoy Old Time Dance Here
A San Francisco radio orchestra furnished music for the "Old Time Dance" held in Redmen hall last night, which was said to be one of the best affairs ever given by the promoters.

Dances will continue during the winter months, it was said last night.

AL JOLSON IN

FOX TODAY

"Big Boy" the Al Jolson play

New York paid $6.60 to see will be shown as a Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture at the Fox-California

Theater today with Al Jolson

in the starring role.

Because Jolson is always at his best when he does not have to adhere to set lines and action, Warner Bros. have given him free rein to be as spontaneous and original as he pleases. The result is a typical Jolson entertainment with stories and jokes told only as Jolson can tell them and songs sung only as Jolson can sing them.

Bearing his lucky character name,

Gus, therefore, and playing the role of a colored jockey, Jolson

once more fascinates his audience as he did in the stage play which ran throughout the country for three years.

The setting of the story is the Kentucky Blue Grass country, and the most thrilling sequence is the famous sporting event, the Kentucky Derby. The racing scenes are all authentic. It is interesting to know also that a complete replica of an old southern mansion with stables, wide lawns, and quarters for a retinue of colored retainers, was built in the center of the vast

Busch gardens of Pasadena, one of the show places of the Pacific coast. Here only can be found the great expanse of lawn familiarly

Here only is the scenery so similar to that found in the neighborhood

Claudia Dell, leading lady of the picture, was chosen from a large number of actresses available for the part because of her natural

Southern accent. Others in the cast are Louise Closser Hale, Lloyd

Hughes, Eddie Phillips, Lew Harvey, Franklin Bati, who played the same role in the original play with Al Jolson and John Harron.

Alan Crossland who directed Jolson in his first picture, "The Jazz

Singer," also directed "Big Boy."

Siam's King,

Queen, To

Visit U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—UP—

The United States is to have a royal visitor, the first since state

Queen Marie of Rumania toured this country three years ago.

His Royal Majesty, Prajadipok

of Sukhodaya, King of Siam, has advised the state department he and his queen will leave their homeland in April, 1931, for the United States, journeying via Vancouver, B. C. They will be accompanied by a retinue of 12 persons.

This eastern monarch's visit will lack the pageantry and show of Queen Marie's tour, however, as he is coming here for medical treatment, rather than to see and be seen.

According to the Siamese legation the king has an eye ailment which he hopes American ocu-listics can remedy. Where he will be treated has not been discussed. It is understood here he will enter either a New York hospital or Baltimore hospital.

Originally the king had planned to visit the United States and Europe in 1932. He desired to stay in Siam until then to take part in the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the capital at Bangkok.

However, a Dutch doctor from Java, after examining the king's eyes, told him not to defer treatment and advised him to seek American medical aid as soon as possible.

Siam's king is of interest because he is one of the few absolute monarchs in the world. The 37-year old ruler holds sway over a tropical domain of 200,148 square miles, aided and advised by a supreme council of state, operating through ministries organized on European lines.

Siam, itself, has some unique features, officials here say. For one thing it is one of the few small Far Eastern states that have avoided economic exploitation or dominion by one of the world powers. This is due in part to the unwillingness of any of the larger

European nations to see another established there, according to informed opinion.

Again, Siam's continued independence is said to rest on the modernization of her courts and other institutions, which make it unnecessary for the powers to seek extra-territorial rights as in China and in some other nations

where law and court procedure rest on ancient customs.

An American college professor,

James Wettersgard, was attached to the Siamese foreign office for several years. Officials who know of his service credit him with mod-ernizing Siam's outlook on world affairs.

As the king's visit is nearly six months off, no definite plans have been made for entertaining him.

It is assumed here, however, that he will, at some time during his stay, come to Washington and pay his respects to President Hoover.

It likewise is assumed that, following precedent, the president will entertain the visiting sovereign at the White House to the extent of giving a reception or a dinner for him.

Big Boy Al

AL JOLSON is the star of "Big Boy," which is now playing at the Fox-California theater. It is another of Al's famous comedies.

WOMAN LEADS

TALKIE COMING

TO FOX

What a woman won't do for effect!

For one sequence of "Anybody's Woman," which she directed for Paramount, and which opens its

Fox-California Theater engagement of two days tomorrow, Dorothy

Arzner, Hollywood's only woman director, had constructed a superstructure stage 4000 feet square.

The fact that it was required on sound stage "13" might have jarred

a less courageous heart than Miss Arzner's.

Sound of the hidden hammer blows being struck off by carpenters at work on this super-structure on the 13th day of the month, presumably would have halted the plan for a genius more easily haunted than she.

The super-structure, a platform covering two-thirds of the sound stage, was six feet from the floor and supported two sets.

It was built especially for Miss Arzner because she wanted to give the effect that a view from the windows of the sets would be the same as that from the third story of a building.

On one of the sets Clive Brook and Tom Patricella appeared while across an air shaft in another room, visible through the windows, were Ruth Chatterton and Cecil

Cunningham.

As the floor of the sound stage was of concrete and built for permanency, it was found that the only way to get the proper effect of height was to build the 4000-foot platform.

SUPPORT GIVEN INMAN IN COUNTY

In Napa county, unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Inman on Thursday night.
The action of the Napa body follows similar unanimous endorsements given the Sacramento senator by all of the labor organizations in Sacramento, the Central Labor Council of Vallejo, which includes the workers employed in the Mare Island Navy Yard, and the Building Trades Council of Solano county.

The prominent part taken by Senator Inman in defeating the attempt to move the naval station from Mare Island was extolled by the Vallejo and Solano county labor bodies as one of the reasons for their endorsements.

Failure of the supporters of Senator Inman's Republican opponent, Forrest Curry, to secure the endorsement of the labor unions of Vallejo, is declared a heavy blow, since Vallejo workers had been counted upon to endorse young Curry because of his father, the late congressman, who was a general favorite with the Vallejo union workers.

The Napa Journal, which had originally endorsed Forrest Curry, and later withdrew its endorsement when Senator Inman's candidacy was announced, Friday definitely entered the Inman ranks with a banner line across its front page urging support of the Sacramento senator.

That night a large gang arrived at the house bearing presents for the Mr. and Mrs. Congratulations were showered down upon the happy pair.

The wife was acting rather, well let's say, peculiar and at first we thought that she was so happy that she was dazed.

Later in the evening she drew us aside and whispered in our ear: "Do you know what day this is?" "Sure," we said, "this is your wedding anniversary."

She grinned, "I'm afraid friend husband got his dates twisted—our anniversary isn't until next month."

We're still trying to find out how he explained this boner to friend wife.

Legislative Record Of Forrest Curry, Candidate For Congress

J. M. INMAN ENDORSED BY YOUNG

Governor Young is interested in seeing that a man of experience is sent to congress to represent the Third congressional district.

During the many years that Governor Young was a member of the legislature, and during his term as governor, he has been in close touch with Inman and his work.

This is what he said in his endorsement of State Senator J. M. Inman, who is now a candidate for congress:

"As one who has been closely in touch with our California legislature for more than twenty years, it gives me great pleasure to say a word respecting Senator J. M. Inman, who was elected to his present office fourteen years ago.

"I first knew Senator Inman when he entered the assembly in 1913, the first year I was speaker of that body. I remember him well for his energy, his industry, and his devotion to the interests of his district. I predicted then that he would go far in legislative work, and was sorry when he determined not to seek re-election.

"Fortunately, however, he came back in 1917, this time as senator, and has been elected to that office four times. During eight years of his service as senator I was lieutenant governor, and was in close touch with him every legislative day. During his last four years I have been in my present office, where I have been greatly indebted to him for his constant help and counsel.

"I mention these personal contacts in order to make it clear that I am in a position to speak advisedly when I say that Senator J. M. Inman is one of our best and strongest and most dependable California legislators, and that during all these years he has rendered wonderful service to his district and to the state.

"He has been exceedingly industrious, has shown exceptional ability, and has stood out conspicuously as a fighter for every forward-looking, progressive measure in the interest of the whole people.

"Few men know the problems of northern California more intimately than Senator Inman. I can think of no one to whom the solution of these problems may be more safely trusted.

"There can be no better guarantee for future service than faithfulness and ability in past service, and in this J. M. Inman has been tried, and has not been found wanting."

Heat Resisting

THE LARGE heat-resisting glass dome which protects the moving parts and guarantees a constant speed of rotation for the latest type 1,075,000-candlepower airport beacon has been developed in Schenectady, N. Y.

A Campaign Completely Lacking In Basic Facts

(Editorial in Sacramento Bee October 24, 1930)

Probably no political campaign in the history of California ever was based upon such an insecure and mendacious foundation as that now being put forth for young Forrest Curry.

In the name of gratitude they owe the father—and many of them do owe him a deep personal debt of character—a number of influential citizens are endeavoring to place that burden for payment upon the shoulders of the voters and taxpayers of the Third Congressional District.

To do so their agents are representing young Curry as a veritable chip of the old block, as a man who was the right hand bower of his parent during the most strenuous periods of the latter's congressional career; as one most thoroughly intimate with not only the wants of this district, but as well with all the great questions of an interstate and even an international character coming or likely to come before congress; as one known in Washington for his force of character; as one most popular and most influential; as one who practically had the ear alike of congressmen and of senators; as one of great influence through the bureaus and the divisions of government in Washington.

And they put forth assertions that Forrest Curry was practically the guiding hand of his father in the latter's recent years as his personal and confidential secretary.

Now, none of these things is true. And everybody in Washington who knows anything at all about the things that are known they are not true.

Young Curry is not and has not been any of these things.

He is not and has not been a man of influence and of power in Washington.

He has not been for twelve years the private secretary of his father.

When a man was wanted for that position who could thoroughly fill it, it was given to Emmet Peterson, and young Curry was made the clerk of the committee on territories.

The reputation of Curry that is being passed around in this district is of the shifting sands. It has no stable foundation of any character. It is built on absolute perversions of known facts.

SURVEY WILL BE MADE BY TAX GROUP

As a forerunner to its proposed campaign of making a study and survey of the public schools of the county, with the purpose in mind of evolving some plan that will curtail the over-increasing demand for funds to annually maintain the schools, Contra Costa county division of California Taxpayers' association sent out broadcast yesterday a questionnaire to hundreds of property owners, taxpayers, and heads of families, soliciting opinions as to their reasons of the over increasing cost of schools and the possible solution of the problem.

The following excerpts, which featured the questionnaire were:

1. Furthering the plan for larger school districts to promote efficiency and economy.
2. Reducing the number of small school districts, which are relatively ineffective and frequently unable to finance a satisfactory school program.
3. Better budgetary control of school expenditures.
4. Placing building programs on the pay-as-you-go plans. (Avoidance of the costly bond issue.)
5. Elimination of "frills" in education.
6. Minimizing the desire to promote "bigger and better" school plants, when actual and practical needs do not require them.
7. Complete functioning of centralized purchasing.
8. Equalizing the teacher load so that each will carry a reasonable minimum of pupils.

J. D. Keith, chairman of its educational section in confirming the rumor that the Taxpayers' association would shortly launch an intensive campaign for the study of the county school system, declared the undertaking was of such a nature that it required the thought and support of every citizen of the county, regardless of whether he is a member of the Taxpayers' association or not.

At their session last Tuesday at Crockett, directors of the Taxpayers' association approved the plans submitted for the study of the schools. At this meeting, it was revealed that educational costs, comprise 57.7 percent of the county expenditures. Demands for 1930-31 aggregate $2,696,691.00 as against $2,369,884.00 spent during 1929-1930, and $2,182,252 disbursed in 1928-29.

Bandits Release U. S. Missionary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—UP—Chinese bandits have released Miss Berglio T. Evenson, one of two American missionaries held captive, according to word received from Sinyangchow by American Consul-General Frank P. Lockhart, at Hankow, he advised the state department today.

The Rev. Bert N. Nelson of Minneapolis, however, and Kristoffer N. Tvedt, a Norwegian missionary employed by an American organization, are still held by the bandits, Lockhart reported.

One Way to Beat That Divorce Percentage

ACCORDING to the very latest statistics on marriage and divorce, just issued by the Department of Commerce, one marriage was dissolved in the year 1929 for each 6.1 marriages performed. The most interesting and optimistic comment on these statistics, however, is that the divorce hazard is not discouraging matrimony.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Though the percentage of broken marriages was a trifle higher, the number of marriages contracted was MUCH higher. In fact, American marriages totaled one of the largest yearly increases numerically and in percentage, exceeding the preceding year's total by 50,062, or 4.2 per cent. Our own New York scored highest with Hymen of all the states, reporting 121,535 marriages.

If only those 243,070 newly married men and women might, like the fairy-tale folk, "live happily ever after!" If only and simply in the interests of human happiness, more couples might find a way to beat the divorce percentage! For it's safe to say that whoever or whatever is to blame for each divorce, the pair involved in the coil would have liked to love and live in peace.

In a news dispatch sent from Chicago recently we came across what seems to us a hopeful solution for saving many a marriage from the divorce court. It is an agreement entered into before Judge John J. Sullivan by S. Rains Wallace, an official in an insurance company, and his wife, Margaret.

The Wallaces are in early middle age, and have a son in college. But they're going to forget the calendar, forget the humdrum habits of married life, and live all over again the romance of courtship.

Mr. Wallace will make dates with his wife, just as he did before she was his wife. He will take her to theaters and to luncheons. He will send her flowers.

"If it doesn't work," says Mrs. Wallace, "I guess we'll consider divorce, but we think it will come out all right."

Almost any woman with an imagination and a sense of romance will agree with Mrs. Wallace, and send her by mental wireless all the good wishes in the world. And doesn't the experiment on which the Wallaces are just embarking suggest one way to beat the divorce percentage? We honestly think so.

Many a marriage, when husband and wife are in the forties, has drifted into the doldrums of dullness and drudgery. The two have been working so hard to bring up and educate the children, to safeguard the family's economic future. He has been breadwinner, she has been housewife, both have been parents so indefatigably that they've forgotten to be lovers.

It is something you must not forget, if you want marriage to be what it can be—the happiest human relationship. And if the husband and wife in the forties are to think about it, the pressure upon them in other than romantic directions often shows a let-up. Their children are grown and either are or soon can be self-supporting. The parents can rediscover each other and love.

Let them not be afraid to express it in the old romantic gestures with flowers and candy, with compliments and "dates," with caresses that are not duty-and-habit kisses. After all, for the rest of their lives they should count so much more for each other than for their children. The latter have their own lives, their own self-chosen emotional relationships. The father and mother are free, if they only will realize it, to turn back to each other with all the old mutual dependence, intensity, tenderness. Their marriage can take a new lease of life—and love.

Nowadays, when we all keep young so much longer, there are such good times ahead for the middle-aged married. For them the divorce court often represents sheer waste. With years of loyalty, of comradeship, of memories between them, they can get as more satisfaction out of a d-blooming romance with each other than with some fresh, but shallow, emotional growth elsewhere.

They only understand this, if of them tries to find the old heart—loved long since and white among a host of other hearts—for them the inspiring need of Rabbi Ben Ezra may be simple old along with me; last of life, for which the first is made."

Fish is neither very plentiful nor particularly cheap in the markets just now, but there are many families to whom fish for dinner two nights a week is as rigid a convention as baked beans on Saturday night were to the Bostonians.

For the housewife who runs her kitchen on a modest budget, canned salmon, tuna or Japanese crab meat is the best choice just now. Others who have a little more leeway in the matter of expenditure can have butterfish or bluefish or sea bass. Other varieties are, for the moment, denied to the budgeteer, unless she manages to secure the fish at a larger amount than usual to spend on the main course.

This extra effort is well worth while when the fish course you wish to serve is a particularly tempting one. The recipe I am going to give you today is so good that I can assure you the family won't mind if other courses served with it are restricted to the less expensive fruits and vegetables in the market.

WEEKLY FISH
2 or 2½-pound weakfish
1 tablespoon butter

1. Wash the fish and remove skin and bones. Cut into five or six pieces. Melt butter in a skillet and add the fish, which has been sprinkled with lemon juice, salt and pepper on both sides. Add finely-minced onion, green pepper and tomatoes which have been peeled and cut in small pieces. Add parsley, bay leaf, thyme and garlic from cooking liquid. Melt butter, add flour and stir in the cooking liquid a little at a time, stirring until thick and smooth. Add cream and green peas and pour over the fish. Heat for ten minutes and

"Paying" Children

AN advertisement often attracts my attention when riding in the subway. It starts, "We used to have to pay junior to drink his milk." How many juniors and their sisters are paid to drink their milk or eat their carrots or go to bed! But if this accomplishes a good purpose, what's the harm? parents often ask. The harm is, first of all, that once you start paying a youngster to drink his milk and do one or two other things, he'll want to be paid for doing everything that is at all objectionable to him. If you start the bribing habit, there is no telling where it will end!

And, as Junior gets older and "smarter," he may decide that the customary ten cents isn't sufficient emolument for a good report card. "I want fifty cents," he announces, in a manner that plainly says, "Take it or leave it." Thus, the bargaining begins!

Oh, if I'd only never started this paying business," many parents moan. "But I can't stop it now," they add. "Last month I told my child I wasn't going to pay him for a good report any longer, and he came home with terrible marks!" The poor youngster has been taught to work for an outside reward, rather than for the inner satisfaction of a job well done. He cannot see a thing without his crutch! But he must learn to do it, or be crippled for life! The only reward for all day's good deeds, except of the time, is the approval of his own conscience. And the children have to learn sooner or later, that this is the only really worth while and dependable recompense.

But, wouldn't you pay the children for anything, for running errands or doing the dishes? mothers often question. No, I would not pay the youngsters for being cooperative members of the family. All the youngsters in a family do things for one another for love, without expectation of additional payment; and I do not think the children should be exceptions. However, in order to give them an opportunity to earn money, I would pay them when they did certain special jobs, for which I would otherwise have to hire an outsider. For which chores we consider are the children's duties, and which ones should be paid for, each individual mother has to decide for herself. Some parents feel that no jobs done in the home should be compensated for in money.

At all events, let us never bribe the children to drink their milk!

To Make Copper Antique

WOULD you like to give your copper ware that green finish which gives the antique touch? That is easy. Just make a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and salt water. With a sponge or cloth, apply this to the copper article covering the entire surface and let it stand a few hours. It may be necessary to repeat this several times to secure the desired shade of green. When this has been accomplished wash the copper article with clean water.

Beautiful and Warm

THERE'S a pair of black velvet pajamas (and all of these things, by the way, are at Bonwit-Teller's new shop) which are really devastating and so practical that they make your heart ache.

Long full trousers, they are, of velvet—a little white satin blouse—and then the coat! Black velvet it is, short, and lined with ermine or bunny fur, a slight rever of the fur running all around the edge and making a perky little bow at one side.

You see the big idea for days or late nights when one grows discouraged, and then think of those winter week-ends in the country when you know darned well that the house will be cold for all their tales of modern heating. Take along this ensemble, wear it for dinner if the party is not dressing, and if they are—lo, and be-

QUICK, WATSON, THE WHIP!

WHEN Mr. Wickersham's recommendation of flogging for gangsters takes effect:

JUDGE—Next case, the Commonwealth vs. Spike (Bow Legs) McVish.

LAWYER—We plead guilty to shooting up a filling station, your honor, but we got extenuating circumstances.

JUDGE—Forty lashes of the whip.

LAWYER—But, your honor, this man didn't kill the filling station guy. He only shot him through one lung. I appeal to the court for a reduction of sentence.

JUDGE—What would you suggest?

LAWYER—I think the ends of justice would be served if the warden threw a dozen cream puffs at the prisoner from a distance of twenty yards.

JUDGE—It is so ordered. Next case, Monk (Lantern Jaw) O'Toole, for highway robbery. Guilty or not guilty?

MONK—Guilty, your honor, but please make the sentence light. I'm an orphan.

JUDGE—Thirty lashes of the whip, with an application of witch hazel for good behavior.

LAWYER—Just a moment, your honor. A flogging would be fatal to this man. He has lumbago, kidney trouble and spinal meningitis. Honestly, a couple of lashes across the back would kill him.

JUDGE—I don't like to pass out any death sentences. Would ten days in jail be too much?

LAWYER—Thanks, judge; that would be just dandy. This orphan boy's mother will bless you to her dying day.

JUDGE—Next case, Archibald (Red) O'Goldberg, for shooting up a chain store.

RED—Guilty, your honor, but I was driven to it. I was desperate for money—my sweetie needed a new ermine coat.

JUDGE—I sentence you to be flogged fifty times across the back with the knout.

RED—Aw, judge, couldn't you make it a silk handkerchief? I've had the hives and I been punished enough. A silk handkerchief would sting pretty bad.

JUDGE—I don't believe in coddling criminals. I deny your request for flogging with a silk handkerchief and change it to fifty lashes with a bandanna instead.

RED—Thanks, judge. I'll never go wrong again.

JUDGE—Next case, Patrick (Hare Lip) Ginsberg, for assault on an officer with a dangerous weapon.

PAT—Guilty, your honor, but that knife wasn't dangerous. Why, I use it to whittle shiny sticks for the kids.

JUDGE—Twenty-five lashes of the whip.

LAWYER—One moment, your honor. There's a shortage of buggy

SCOTT URGES SUPPORT OF CHEST

Character building activities are an important branch of community work and in this field none surpasses the Young Men's Christian association, according to W. W. Scott, chairman of the Richmond Community Chest campaign committee, who today urged support in the campaign for funds which opens November 3.

Scott quoted Roger Babson, the nationally known statistician, as to the invaluable service which the Y. M. C. A. renders in keeping boys and men fit to fight the battle of life.

"Business depressions are caused as much as anything by a general collapse of moral character," said Babson. "Statistics show this plainly. With equal precision they show how business depressions are cured. They are cured by moral awakening, spiritual revival, and the rehabilitation of righteousness. The 'American Bankers' association' can provide capital. The 'American Statistical association' can measure results. But the Association which goes to the real root of the matter is the Young Men's Christian association. This latter has far greater possibilities than the others combined.

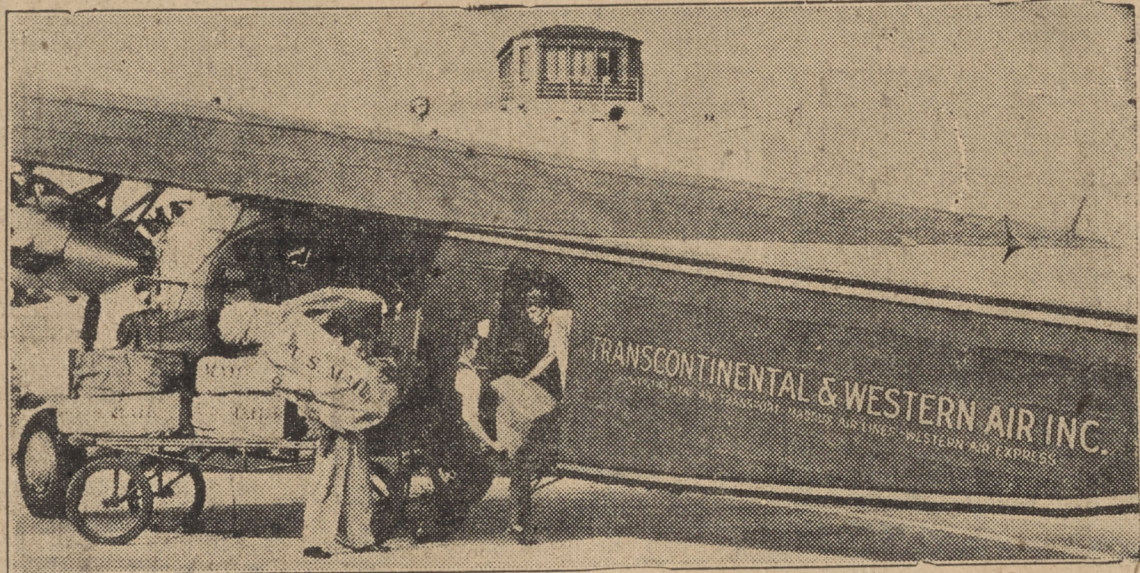

"To bring back prosperity, people must be 'conditioned,' as the psychologist says. They must be conditioned in right ways of working and living on all sides of the triangle of physical, mental and spiritual values. The economic welfare of our nation can be directly promoted by supporting our Young Men's Christian associations. They are indispensable agencies in laying the foundation for better times. Any lessening of support of the Young Men's Christian Association at this critical juncture is like withholding seed at the very moment when all hands are sowing for a life-giving harvest. I go further and say that business men should today increase their support to this and all other truly religious work."

Under the community chest plan the Y. M. C. A. can be made one of the vital forces in the community, Scott declared. He said that the following list of activities indicates the wide field of activities in the city.

Hikes, archery classes, tumbling teams, Hi-Y basketball team in city league (winners of Richmond Jr. League championship 1929), 130 pound basketball team, parties for younger boys, mixed parties for older boys and young men, discussions on personal problems, swimming instructions, securing positions for boys, and helping boys with vocational problems.

Inman For Congress

(Reproduced from issue of October 24, 1930.)

State Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, who has an outstanding record for sixteen years of accomplishment in the state legislature, of which any man might well be proud, is a write-in candidate for congressman of the Third district at the election to be held November Fourth.

He has a record that is not surpassed by any other member of the Senate, and it is upon that record that he is making his campaign for the position which he seeks.

The RECORD-HERALD is for Inman, and urges the people of this county to write-in his name, because it feels that with his long experience in legislative matters, he is best fitted for the position.

Although he has been in the campaign but a little over a week, the support that has rallied to him in the six counties of the district is marvelous. It shows the confidence that the people have in him.

The candidate is one of those tenacious fighters who battles for the things he believes to be right, and he is just as vigorous in opposition to those things that he believes to be wrong. He has proven to be a faithful representative of the people, and is willing at all times to fight for principle.

Inman is one of the outstanding men of the Senate, and is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the counties of the district. He is for the upbuilding and development of the district in every manner. He stands for the further development of Richmond's harbor.

Inman has been spending part of the week in this county, and has met many. To meet him convinces you that you are meeting a man of action, power, and character.

Some of the outstanding work of Inman in the legislature is that he was the author of the California anti-alien land legislation, the author of the indeterminate sentence law, the author of aid to crippled children and other humanitarian legislation. He is the chairman of the Senate Finance committee, and the acting chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, the two important committees of the Senate. He was formerly an inheritance tax appraiser, and is also a veteran of the world's war.

There is no man better fitted to care for the needs of the Third Congressional district than Inman.

When you go to the polls November 4th and vote for congressman, write-in the name "J. M. INMAN."

27 SLAIN IN SHELLING OF VESSEL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 25.—UP—An official announcement today said 27 persons, including 18 women and children, were killed yesterday when artillery at Copacabana fortress opened fire on the German steamer Baden in the harbor. Thirty-five other persons on the ship were wounded.

The women and children were Spanish emigrants. Four members of the Baden crew were killed by the fire and five of the wounded died later.

The ship's captain said he did not know the significance of the warning shot the fortress fired across the ship's bow before firing on the vessel.

International complications threatened to descend upon the new leaders almost immediately.

The German steamer Baden, while leaving port during the disorders yesterday, was fired on by Fort Copacabana.

"Every measure will be taken to remedy this lamentable accident," the Ministry of Justice announced. The authorities said the ship had been fired on because it was leaving the harbor without a permit.

BAZIL APOLOGIZES TO GERMAN PEOPLE

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—UP—The Brazilian minister of the navy officially apologized to the German legation at Rio de Janeiro for the bombardment of the Baden, the foreign office was informed.

German officials and the majority of newspapers took the incident calmly, regarding the bombardment of the ship as inadvertent. The Nationalists press, however, indignantly demanded that Germany insist on full satisfaction.

The Lokal Anzeiger commented that the Baden's alleged departure from Rio de Janeiro without permission would not excuse the bombardment, because it was the duty of Captain Rollin of the Baden to leave the danger zone of the revolution as quickly as possible with his passengers.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung called the bombardment a senseless violation of international law.

"Even the violation of port rules" the newspaper commented, "would not condone such a measure against a steamer belonging to a friendly nation."

The same newspaper, however, suggested that subordinates ordered the firing without the knowledge of the revolutionary government.

Several newspapers commented that the overthrow of the Washington Luis government was grave embarrassment to the United States.

The Baden, a Hamburg-American line steamer, has a displacement of 8803 tons.

DISCORD SEEN IN NEW GOVERNMENT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 25.—The revolutionary leaders who seized control of the government of Brazil yesterday amid great confusion, began today the difficult task of restoration of normal conditions under a stable provisional regime.

Formation of a "governing junta (committee)" headed by General Tasso Fracoso was announced in a communique, which said deposited President Washington Luis "handed over the government after receiving all consideration due to his high post."

Washington Luis, who yesterday defiantly told the revolutionary leaders they might kill him but he would not resign, has been held a prisoner, but the communique said all members of the cabinet had been "exonerated."

A message sent to Brazilian diplomatic envoys aboard said the governing junta would include President General Fracoso, Gen. Manna Barreto and Admiral Iaias Noronha.

The program of the junta provided for "fraternity of the Brazilian nation and fulfillment of national obligations abroad," the message said.

Hollywood On Long Trek To Old New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—UP—Hollywood is trekking Gothamward. Nearly every trans-continental train unloads its quota of movie stars, directors, authors and executives. And in the meantime Astoria, L. I., just across the river from New York, is becoming the Hollywood of the East.

Practically all of the large production companies have established studios there and the others are hunting locations on which to begin production.

The eastward trek is due to a great extent to the "talkies." With the wealth of talent, dramatic, musical and writing, easily available because of the studies' proximity to New York, producers found that operating costs could be cut greatly by making pictures at the Long Island city.

Short subjects have been made at Astoria for a number of years and some features have been produced there, but it only has been in the last few months that the big companies have laid out a comprehensive program of feature production for Astoria.

Since the Astoria craze began in the studios such stars as Maurice Chevalier, Nancy Carroll, Ina Claire, Mary Brian, Frederic March, Claudette Colbert, Ed Wynn and dozens of others, have performed before the Klees there. Paramount, Vitaphone, Warner Brothers and Andicinema all are operating Astoria studios at full time while other large organizations are busy planning an Eastern invasion.

SAVANTS LEAVE FROM ECLIPSE ISLAND

NIAUFU ISLAND, South Pacific Ocean, Oct. 25.—UP—Companions united many weeks by their common interest in science bade farewell to one another today, as the party of New Zealand astronomers sailed for Suva on the S. S. Tanager, bearing with them 12 photographic plates taken during the total eclipse of the sun on October 21.

Behind them on Niaufo or "Tin Can Island," they left the group sent out by the United States Naval Observatory, and other American astronomers, who are not yet scheduled to depart for home.

En route to Suva the New Zealanders will develop their plates, hoping that the results obtained will be as successful as those already developed by the Americans, who obtained 100 photographs.

The hundred plates taken by the naval and civilian astronomers have all been developed on the island, and have been pronounced the finest ever obtained. They are expected to contribute knowledge never before discovered, concerning the composition and phenomenon of the sun.

The actual taking of the pictures, with its weeks of labor involving setting up the delicate instruments, and the fervent hopes for clear weather are now over, and success greeted the efforts of the scientists. But actually the work has just started.

One Held In Death Of Girl

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—UP—Albert Dodson 22, an ex-convict was arrested today for questioning in the murder of Alice (Toots) Collier, 15, who disappeared while on an errand for her mother August 2.

Her body was found late yesterday by a hunter in a wooded district on the outskirts of the city. She had been strangled to death.

Several hours after the hunter stumbled over the body as it lay under twin oak trees, the girl's mother appeared at the county morgue. She looked at remnants of a blue and white dress that Alice wore when she disappeared and identified the girl through a diagram of her teeth.

Homicide detectives said Dodson escaped from the Detroit House of Correction about the time the girl disappeared.
